Synopsis

Struggling film maker Betty Tatfatler Snoogen is filming at her deserted local church. As she shoots stills for yet another wedding video her usually reliable video camera jams. She peers through her viewfinder to review the footage and is confronted with an image of the spectre of death. She frantically heads home to edit the footage and confirm what's on the tape only to find the grim reaper has followed her home...

Rob and Michael, individually and as Alicemedia, have worked with a diverse range of clients, companies and peers. They have delivered productions in several genres such as live music video, short films (written, directed and produced), educational products, mobile media productions. Alicemedia has developed a solid core of freelance professionals to call on to assist in the successful delivery of any project. As well as developing its own productions Alicemedia regularly gives technical support and advice to others.
